

--	--	--

The troubled young woman going by the name “Nemesis” makes a difficult fit for the Sword Scholars. Discipline is not alien to her – she was a slave, after all – but that’s just it: discipline, as far as she’s concerned, is a thing for slaves. She’d much rather tear down the Grendel until not one brick sits atop another.

Towards the end of the season, she disappears, leaving a note in your quarters. You’re not sure how she got in there. Checking her own quarters reveals she’s taken a training-sword with her, and provisions for at least a couple of weeks.