

Greetings to the cherished Ironside Skar,

I trust that you have returned safely to the comforts of the Empire.

I write to inform you of my intent to claim the Ducal seat of Kalino as my own. I trust that I do not need to explain to you that my taking that position of power would help the Empire in the future against the barbaric Jotun and the unruly Grendel.

I can offer no immediate military aid at this time, however I may be able to offer some few of my own troops, when the situation presents itself.

If you wish one of your allies to send a reply they can send one of the accursed winged missives to my priest, Jean-Armand who resides in my own keep.

Yours,

Baron Harold Guiscard

Kalino