

Jotun Brief

“They enshrine the warrior ideal”

- Born to war - fight face-to-face, take and deliver wounds to the front
- Fiercely honourable - fight with honour, keep your word, despise oathbreakers
- Conquerors by nature - those you defeat can become a thrall, or die

“They are a warlike tribe that values strength-in-arms and fighting-spirit as their highest virtues”

- Revere their ancestors - draw strength from your ancestors in battle
- Seek death in battle - a good death in battle gets you closer to the ancestors
- Neither barbaric or cruel - let a fallen foe bleed out, and have a good death

NO HONOUR DUELS, NO LOOTING, NO EXECUTING

Jotun Eirval

Battlefield physicians and healers

- Orc, or human thrall, serving the Kirkja
- Competent healer
- Provide support as they see fit
- Respected by all Jotun

Eirval

- 3 hits
- Any armour
- Shield
- Chirurgeon
- Physick

Things to know:

Eirval are skilled healers, using surgery, herblore and magical potions to return Jotun to the fight. Their work commands respect.

They might have:

- Healing herbs, healing potions, magical tools

Jotun Smidr

Battlefield smith

- Orc, or human thrall, serving the Kirkja
- Competent crafter
- Oversee item bondings
- Repair shattered items

Artisan

- 3 hits
- Any armour
- Artisan

Things to know:

The Jotun armies march to war well armed and equipped. Smidr are honoured for their expertise, be it in mundane or magical forging.

They might have:

- Materials, Artisan's Oil, magical tools

Jotun Galdr

Battlefield mage

- Orc, or human thrall, serving the Kirkja
- Competent spellcaster
- Supports the artisans and healers
- Uncommon among Jotun

Artisan

- 2 hits
- Mage, Battle Mage
- Mend + Purify
 - Or
- Heal + Restore Limb

Things to know:

The Jotun make little use of mages in war, but they do support warriors can be found in larger warbands. Galdr are acknowledged for their skill, but not praised for it.

They might have:

- Mageblood, Crystallised Mana

Jotun Thrall

Battlefield servants

- Thralls serving the Jotun
- Loyal to the Jotun
- Carry out orders
- Attend to a notable hero

Thrall

- 2 hits
- No armour
- No weapons

Things to know:

Thralls of the Jotun have made a choice not to fight, but they serve the armies in many other ways; cooks, servants, messengers, banner bearers, medical orderlies and much more.