

For a year you have born the curse of the jewels, which call out to the stars of the Great Wyrms above you.

The Jewels' hallow currently rests within Arrogance, and as such the stars offer you a transformation:

Your changeling trappings will change, and will intensify. In the face of fear or doubt, you will find that you can resist these forces and instead respond with arrogance.

It is your choice whether or not you accept this transformation.

For a year you have born the curse of the jewels, which call out to the Wanderer above you.

The Jewels' hallow currently rests within Ego. Your transformation has already begun, as you may be aware:

A creature of the Wanderer has formed around your spirit. They have learned all they know from you, and in this dream space the two of you may stand as separate beings.

You are offered a transformation, changing this being which has formed around your heart. You may talk with it, tell it of the world and where its place within the world may be.

It is your choice whether or not you accept this transformation.

For a year you have born the curse of the jewels, which call out to the Claw above you.

The Jewels' hallow currently rests within Agramant, and as such the stars offer you this transformation:

To hunt our foe, we must become more like them. Agramant hunts his prey in their dreams. You are offered a transformation of the spirit which will allow you to hunt one named foe through the dreamscape if you can deliver a pronouncement of doom to them.

This power will not work on Imperial citizens.

You will also share in some of Agramant's dreams, seeing into his thoughts.

It is your choice whether or not you accept this transformation.

For a year you have born the curse of the jewels, which call out to the Chalice above you.

The Jewels' hallow currently rests within Teacher, and as such the stars offer you this transformation:

You have learned how we are shaped by our teachers. You are offered the chance to transform as you would have under several different teachers throughout your life.

Speak to these alter visions of yourself. And if you wish, you may transform into one.

It is your choice whether or not you accept this transformation.

For a year you have born the curse of the jewels, which call out to the Phoenix above you.

The Jewels' hallow currently rests within Night, and as such the stars offer you this transformation:

Your magic will be transformed into a reflection of Night. Your total ability will not change, but the magic you wield will transform.

It is your choice whether or not you accept this transformation.