

Orc Shaman Brief 2

The ancestors seem more aggressive in your head, something has disturbed them greatly. They shout at you fairly constantly, to destroy the Empire, to be strong and aggressive and make sure the other Orcs act the same. It is the ancestors of the Barbarian Orcs that are the angriest, you try to listen to them, but their screaming is uncontrollable and at times you find yourself being shouted at by multiple ancestors at once. Something has disturbed them, something has come over the Great Abyss that they are not happy about. You must do better.

When you spend a hero point in battle, you will hear them with more clarity. It may well distract you, or may push you forward into what you are doing. But a Powerful Imperial Orc has passed over the Abyss. One that threatens the status quo. The Orc ancestors are fighting trying to make their voices heard louder.

Roleplay the voices in your head accordingly, but it is definitely louder than normal and they are upset. They will take this out on you.

This affect will get worse over the weekend or until whatever is causing the issue is resolved.