

Briefing for player 7386.3 - Sigismund Vladislav Kestovia:

Briefing in pack: You are now experiencing nightmares of the crawling depths every night without fail. Your dreams are of running through endless tunnels, but the Druj overseers are everywhere, striking you with the lash or clapping you in irons and dragging you by the hair. There is no escape.

Further to this while you are awake, you are still seeing the overseers out of the corner of your eye, and sometimes you see them in the distance striding towards you, but when you blink they are gone. This effect is more frequent and more intense than last event. Perhaps more worryingly, the other escaped slaves who have settled in your community are reporting similar sightings although military scouts insist there is no known Druj presence in the area.

Please report to GOD on Saturday morning for an additional briefing.
