

Tobyrtan Dunning,

Thank you very much indeed for the necessary funding for my exploration into the Sinkhole. The party we took was sufficient and I have certainly uncovered something, if not the haul we were expecting (at least not right now).

I'm sure I don't need to explain to you just how dangerous the trogoni are, least of all when they smell any crystallised mana. Unfortunately one of the guards I hired didn't realise this, and had managed to uncover a small cache, meaning we were hunted more than we should have.

Following this initial foray I believe that there are two potential things that I can do, please send me a winged messenger if you want me to do either of those things. It will take at least a season to detail any potential areas.

First, there is an opportunity to uncover any potential areas for you to send people to try excavate resources and potentially other, older treasures.

Second, I could instead focus on uncovering potential breeding grounds for trogoni, it might be useful to try to kill them at the source? At the very least, potentially reducing the numbers of the monstrosities is a good tale for the scops.

In service,

Peter of Hintown

The Eastern Guard

Birchland

Upwold