

CURSE

Curse ID: 23167

Briar Blossom

Over the past weeks, you have noticed flowers growing from one or more of you patches of bark.

Role-playing Effect: Your character is CURSED.

While this curse is in effect, you find yourself feeling more confident and positive than normal - troubling problems seem less important and feel like they could be solved if you just put your mind to it.

You experience vivid dreams of pristine wilderness untouched by human hands. Of a simple and rewarding life that is a stark contrast to the complexity that surrounds you in the Empire. The details of the dreams differ but all contain the same welcoming image; a beautiful figure draped in flowers, arms outstretched to you, calling you home.

Mechanical Effect: In addition, while affected by this CURSE, you sprout flowers from your bark. You also recover all lost hits after fifteen minutes of rest and relaxation. There is no effect if you are in a battle or similar stressful environment. If you attack a target or are attacked during this time you will need to start your rest over from scratch.

CURSE

Curse ID: 23167

Briar Blossom

Over the past weeks, you have noticed flowers growing from one or more of you patches of bark.

Role-playing Effect: Your character is CURSED.

While this curse is in effect, you find yourself feeling more confident and positive than normal - troubling problems seem less important and feel like they could be solved if you just put your mind to it.

You experience vivid dreams of pristine wilderness untouched by human hands. Of a simple and rewarding life that is a stark contrast to the complexity that surrounds you in the Empire. The details of the dreams differ but all contain the same welcoming image; a beautiful figure draped in flowers, arms outstretched to you, calling you home.

Mechanical Effect: In addition, while affected by this CURSE, you sprout flowers from your bark. You also recover all lost hits after fifteen minutes of rest and relaxation. There is no effect if you are in a battle or similar stressful environment. If you attack a target or are attacked during this time you will need to start your rest over from scratch.

CURSE

Curse ID: 23167

Briar Blossom

Over the past weeks, you have noticed flowers growing from one or more of you patches of bark.

Role-playing Effect: Your character is CURSED.

While this curse is in effect, you find yourself feeling more confident and positive than normal - troubling problems seem less important and feel like they could be solved if you just put your mind to it.

You experience vivid dreams of pristine wilderness untouched by human hands. Of a simple and rewarding life that is a stark contrast to the complexity that surrounds you in the Empire. The details of the dreams differ but all contain the same welcoming image; a beautiful figure draped in flowers, arms outstretched to you, calling you home.

Mechanical Effect: In addition, while affected by this CURSE, you sprout flowers from your bark. You also recover all lost hits after fifteen minutes of rest and relaxation. There is no effect if you are in a battle or similar stressful environment. If you attack a target or are attacked during this time you will need to start your rest over from scratch.