

My good friend Bertrand,

How are your pockets at the moment; I hope that they are a great burden that you wish to lighten.

I was wondering if you could help build a great work, one that could house the necklace of the founders of the League. I know that through the senators or the civil commissioners this is possible.

I am confident that soon the necklace will be in the hands of those of Temeschwar, but if you and the other Cartas of Temeschwar could help build this great work, when we have the necklace we have a monument to pride— and to honour the three first cities of the League, and the greatest of them of Temeschwar.

I am happy to match what materials you put into the Great Work, within reason, but I need the permission to build it, which is more difficult for me than getting hold of the White Granite needed.

I hope that you will aid the people of your city in this simple task.

For the pride of Temeschwar

Lorec De Sarris of Temeschwar
