

The Crescencian Manifesto

This Crescencian Party holds the following to be true:

Individual Citizens have souls	Institutions do not
Individuals can be Virtuous	Institutions cannot
Individuals can be Ambitious	Institutions are conservative
Individuals can be Courageous	Institutions are cautious
Individuals can be Loyal	Institutions are impersonal
Individuals can be Proud	Institutions are faceless
Individuals can Prosper	Institutions hoard
Individuals can be Wise	Institutions resist change

The Constitution guarantees dignity, freedom and prosperity to citizens.

The Way teaches that through Virtue we achieve our destiny.

It costs nothing for the Senate to create titles conferring the powers of the Institutions to individuals to wield personally and virtuously, and without reliance upon apathy and obstructionism.

The Senate can do this – and must do this.
