

Your military unit, travelling with the scouts of the Seventh Wave army, have come across many caches of supplies along the retreat path of the routing Druj armies. A great deal has just been abandoned without care. Even more has been deliberately tainted – waterskins punctured, grain-sacks opened and turned into the mud, healing herbs set alight or turfed into the camp cesspit. But occasionally you've come across boxes marked with an X which have been hastily stashed away – presumably goods too valuable even for the Druj to destroy, which they hope to recover.
