

Rust (CID: 386.1, player: Gareth Jackson)

When gathering mana at your mana site, The Clattering Gulley, there was only half as much mana as you expected, only five crystals seemed to be locatable instead of the usual ten. On closer inspection there was evidence of trespass, most likely thieves. You found a few threads of blue cloth, snagged on a tree and a few links of a chain caught under a rock. Although there were footprints in and around the mana site its self, once beyond the gully they have been expertly obscured. None of the locals report seeing anything, and although some heard a disturbance, by the time they got there the perpetrators were gone.