

'Dear Cardinal

I hope this find you in virtue. In regard to the investigation into Lady Barkheart we have looked into it. It appears that the posters only appear in Anvil while the heroes of the Empire are gathered each season. To that end we believe it to be one of the Heroes of the Empire. We hope this helps, however as we do not maintain a presence in anvil it would be hard for us to track this any further, this maybe a job for priests with a more intimate connection to Anvil? However during our investigation one of our members brought this to our attention. Recently she has been tracking a Briar by the name of Ruth, of the Freeheart ministry, who has been preaching freedom among refugees from Reikos that have made their way to Bastion and believes she may have found the compound they have been operating out of. We believe that there will be conjunction to 'Lonely Pine, The Elms, Bastion.'

Although this is not to do with your initial request we feel it is a clear and present danger if ignored and could lead to further problems for the already embattled region.

Yours

Eli, The Silent Bell.'
