

Dear Heilyn,

I see you got your motion passed through the Prosperity Assembly! Nice one. It's definitely got people talking, or at least the kind of people who actually read all the Judgements in the Prosperity Assembly. You've caused a good few arguments, so bloody good work there.

Of course, a Statement in a Virtue Assembly ain't what it used to be, what with the Wisdom Assembly being slapped down and all. If you want to take this forward, I'd advise getting it out there in the General Assembly. Should be easy enough - I don't see a lot to object to there, and even if people do argue about it, at least they're having the bloody conversation! Get us a good majority and you'll have people listening to you.

Of course, I don't want to get your expectations going the wrong way. Like I said when we talked, most traders don't really need to worry much about economics. Nor do most citizens, really. This is shaping the conversations of high-volume traders like us, and Priests who love theory. But I'll tell you something that everyone's keen to see - they want to see your Inquisitions written up! Get us something juicy, some good examples and some bad examples, tell us what they did right and what they did wrong. That'll get some tongues wagging.

If you've any ideas as to how we could carry this forward in practical terms, we're all ears! Mind you, we're all over Therunin these days, what with the Cardinal pointing us there and all. Keep that going! We bloody love that!

Yours in Virtue,

Gethyn Blood-And-Sweat