

Hopefully they warned you what it would mean, to wear Chained No More as a cloak. But were you ready for it? The growing volume of ancestral voices this season, urging you to get ready, urging you to remember the past?

One voice comes through more clearly than all the others. Names itself Shattered Sun Empa. "Do not forget! " it feels like he is bawling at the sky itself, not just you "Not just mines, not just Varushka, slavery everywhere. That was what we had to overcome" He asks questions too. "When you forge your future in this Empire, do you remember where we have come from?"

And he wants you to travel to an old logging camp of the Weirwater Vales, in Wickmoor, Weirwater. Weirwater, where the husk army has been. Will it be safe enough for a ceremony? You should talk to Grud, in order to make plans.

Role-playing Effect if applicable: You may choose to hear Ancestral Voices more strongly this Equinox, both the ones from this experience and any others of your own roleplaying.

Mechanical Effect: if applicable: None.