

Syn Truthwalker

I write on behalf of The Tomb King and of Exquy, who felt your absence at the Solstice.

Your suffering brings reward at last. You and yours are invited to learn the ritual called the Wolves of Winter.

You are being invited to a chamber I have never seen. The Coldest Chamber. There, up to seven members of the same coven may study the ritual text.

You will reach it by the Hall of Worlds, step through the Portal at 7 on the Saturday evening of the Equinox.

You must all be joined by a coven bond – you know how much interest the Hungry Wolf takes in bonds and how they last or do not last, of course.

And you must all have the capacity for mastering a new ritual.

No more will be asked of you and you will ask the Tomb King for nothing else, until the ritual is cast at least four times.

If there is no one present in the chamber when you arrive, learn what you can from what is around you and listen to the whispers in the winds of desolation.

Yours in recognition of the depths of winter in you

Anya of Highguard
