

OOC: As you walk through the city a small kid bumps into you and runs off. As you check that your pouch is still where you left it you find this crumpled note.

Greetings friend,

We believe it is about time that those of us of aligned interests and who are Ambitious enough to follow them through should meet to discuss the future. It has been a hard year but the future is bright if we are Courageous enough to put aside rivalries and sit together under one roof. It is our hope that at some point this summit the Sentinel Gate will align itself so as to permit you to visit us for this will be a momentous occasion. We will be all weekend on the outskirts of Temeschwar, on Metri Avenue in Hanuri, so as to stay away from prying eyes. You are invited to bring, as well as yourself, two people who you believe to be trustworthy and worthy of our time and hospitality. As your guests you will be asked to answer for them if they end up a danger, a liability or simply unreceptive to our words.
