

At some point during the season, you are approached by a humanoid bronze construct - a little bit like an ushabti, but capable of operating wherever you happened to be. It does not appear to be able to speak, but hands you a small pouch of ashes (card enclosed) and the enclosed note.