

To the Most High Cardinal of Prosperity, Darian Numbers, from the Questioners of Attar,

Greetings and felicitations to you, great one of Virtue! We travel from the Broken Shore in search of the most Virtuous and the most prominent souls we can arrange a meeting with, speaking on behalf of the greatest Questioners of all the Grendel peoples.

Our masters command congregations of thousands from tents a hundred feet tall. Pilgrims follow where they walk, and their touch can heal certain illnesses. With the promise of great fortune, they collect great fortunes, and they use it to better themselves and those around them. For there's no better way to cross the Abyss than on the lifted voices of thousands!

Our masters speak with the authority of true power: the power to inspire, and to light the fire of inspiration in others. Their decisions carry great weight. And three of them have decided they want to meet with the Imperial Cardinals. So they have sent us ahead to discuss a possible meeting at the Winter Solstice summit at Anvil. We're to find out if there's any appetite for such a thing, and to sort the logistics out if so.

We'll be arriving to Anvil at 3pm and hope to meet with some or all of you after we've met with the Urizen, who we hope will help us find our way around!

May the wind blow ever at your back,

Noreen Scava
