

My friends,

I remember our meeting at Anvil with a warm heart and, I won't lie, a heavy purse. And no sooner had I invested that money in prosperous endeavour than the word came of this good business in Peroz.

Now, there's no love lost between Rahab and the Doyals of Attar. To hear of him getting screwed by his enemies was a wild ride, to be sure. But something's gone wrong with that, and I need your help urgently.

I know you've got that gate that goes anywhere you like. I don't know how you run it, but I'll pay to use it, and perhaps to hire a dozen heavies or more, to go fetch an old friend from Peroz. You seem like the sort of important and prosperous folks who could make that happen, if anyone can, and I believe I can trust in your honesty.

I'll be in Anvil as soon as I can - early Friday evening.

I hope I can count on your good will in this as in your dealings last summit.

I look forward to our next meeting,

GOQYR DOVAL
