

Sam of Borsdell Hall,

I write to request you present yourself, and the others of your kind, to me at your earliest opportunity. The time has come for you to make good on the the oaths of your forebears.

The Dark King has arisen in the north, and all those who once swore to aid his vision, are called to renew their loyalty. Already some of the Dawnish houses have knelt to his advisor, the Volodny known as Bas Celik.

Your task is to speak to three others whose predecessor swore with your ancestor, and ensure that some of the mithril bounty of the Singing Caves finds its way to Boyar, so that we may fight once again.

Once you have accomplished this, write to request a meeting place with me.
