

Pillaging the Thule

Your crew report in after a season's aggressive sea patrol against the Grendel. There is some damaged equipment, some cuts and bruises. But by and large it looks like they stuck to your orders, engaging only lightly defended vessels and "commandeering" supplies. Dirty work, some would call it, others might say spoils of war. Either way, you smile as they empty a sack before you containing what was once property of the Grendel, now yours, might making right in this case. In addition to more mundane goods, your eyes are drawn to a battered, old looking coin on a piece of leather thong, apparently found in a box of mostly worthless trinkets hidden in a Grendel sailor's cabin.

OOO Note

In addition to the resources looted by your crew, you should have ribbon ID 8649 in your pack, along with a PD physrep coin (not the normal ring, crown or throne pieces).

If you have picked up your pack before this has been placed inside, please check back at GOD in a few hours. It should be ready well before time-in on Friday.