

Over the past few nights your sleep has been disturbed by nightmares. Details have been becoming clearer. This was the dream last night

You are alone on a desert plain at night. It is bitterly cold and there is no shelter. A small light shimmers off in the distance so you head in that direction. As you get close you discover a camp fire with a lone orc sitting roasting meat over it. She bids you sit and offers you meat. The camp fire puts out no heat but the almost raw meat tastes good anyway. There is an animal carcass, possibly a drake, on the edge of the firelight from which the orc occasionally carves a fresh chunk. As the meat starts to run low you start to eye each other warily. As she proffers the next piece you beat her viscously with a bone, staving in her skull. You drag her carcass next to the drake's and set about butchering it as you await the next traveller.

You awakened at dawn with the taste of raw flesh in your mouth.

---

Ribbon ID:

Your character is CURSED. While cursed, your character has the following effects:

- Physical effect: You may choose to make your skin paler than normal, for instance by using white or yellow make-up.
- Roleplaying effect: You continue to have nightmares similar to the one above whenever you sleep.
- Roleplaying effect: You feel more emotionally distant and calculating than normal. You are more willing to do whatever it takes to achieve your goals, even if that is to the detriment of others or the actions required are unpleasant.
- Roleplaying effect: You are hungrier than normal, and unusual things, such as dead bodies, smell appetising.
- Mechanical effect: If this curse is still in effect by midnight on Sunday please speak to a ref at the the first reasonable opportunity