

Arbiter,

I must beg your forgiveness. I act purely out of a sense of Vigilance. It is my firmly held belief that an Agent of The Tribunal has managed to infiltrate the Seers of the Throne.

Consequently, I hold a conviction in my heart that I must act to safeguard some of our most precious secrets and keep them from their hands.

I have invoked one of our pacts with the Whisper Gallery. They have provided a group of Secret Keepers; custodians of Night and guardians of secrets, who will protect ours.

When the threat has passed, I am confident you will learn of the cache's location. There are four gates that one must pass in order to bypass the protections I have put in place.

To pass the first gate, recite the Sect oath of the Seers when asked for the Coven oath.

To pass the second gate, answer the seven riddles posed by the Secret Keepers.

To pass the third gate, you must demonstrate knowledge of Abraxian lore.

To pass the fourth gate, you must feed the Secret Keepers.

Obviously failure at any of the above will trigger the defences that the Whisper Gallery graciously arranged to defend our secrets.

I hope that I am wrong and the Seers continue to retain the advantage, and ideally our secrecy, over those close-minded zealots. If so, I must apologise for the inconvenience.

In Loyalty and Vigilance to our order,

Cassandra
